

18th century Staffordshire harvest jug with pewter lid

£25

REF: 5015

Height: 20 cm (7.9")

Diameter: 14 cm (5.5")

Description

18th century Staffordshire harvest jug with pewter lid (detached), circa 1780.

Staffordshire harvest jugs, produced in 18th and 19th-century England, are decorative ceramic vessels featuring scenes of agricultural life. Often adorned with designs depicting harvest themes and rural scenes, these jugs served both functional and ornamental purposes. They reflect the region's craftsmanship and appreciation for rural traditions.