

Mikimoto cultured pearl ear studs

£125

Description

A pair of boxed Mikimoto cultured pearl ear studs set in 14ct yellow gold.

Mikimoto pearls trace their origins to Kokichi Mikimoto, who revolutionised the pearl industry in the late 19th century. In 1893, he successfully cultured the world's first semi-spherical pearl in Japan, marking a breakthrough in pearl cultivation. By 1905, Mikimoto perfected the process for producing round cultured pearls, transforming them into accessible luxury.

His dedication to quality established Mikimoto as a global brand, renowned for its exquisite pearls that bridged nature's beauty and innovative craftsmanship.
