

Pair of Edwardian gold and turquoise earrings

Sold

Description

A pair of Edwardian 9ct yellow gold and turquoise screw-back earrings, circa 1910.

Turquoise is a vibrant blue-green gemstone, cherished for centuries by various cultures for its beauty and protective qualities. Often used in jewellery and amulets, it symbolises luck, healing, and spiritual grounding. Turquoise's distinct colour and historical significance make it a timeless and treasured stone in both fashion and cultural artefacts.
