Description

A first world war 1st Battalion Rifle Brigade swagger stick with ebonised cane.

Military swagger sticks are distinctive accessories used by officers and cadets, symbolising authority and discipline. Typically made of polished wood or metal, these elegant sticks often feature a decorative finial and are carried with pride during parades and formal events.

Swagger sticks serve not only as a visual emblem of rank but also as a tool for commanding presence. Historically, they reflect the tradition and pageantry of military life, fostering camaraderie and instilling a sense of pride among service members.
