Description

Two mid-century leather and gilt faux book boxes, circa 1940.

Faux book boxes are decorative storage items designed to resemble traditional books but serve as functional storage solutions. Crafted with attention to detail, these boxes mimic the appearance of leather-bound or antique volumes, often featuring faux spines with ornate designs. They blend seamlessly into bookshelves, providing a stylish way to conceal clutter while enhancing the aesthetic of a space. Ideal for organising and hiding papers, these faux book boxes combine practicality with elegant charm.
