

Faceted amber earrings

£145

Description

A pair of tear drop faceted amber earrings with yellow gold mounts.

Amber is a fossilised tree resin prized for its rich golden hues and warm, organic beauty. Formed over millions of years, it captures ancient life by sometimes containing preserved insects and plant material, offering unique insights into prehistoric ecosystems.

Amber has been valued across cultures as a gemstone in jewellery and as a material with spiritual and healing significance. Found in regions like the Baltic Sea, amber is celebrated for its natural glow and timeless allure.
