

Victorian 18ct yellow gold and cornelian signet ring

£625

Description

Victorian 18ct yellow gold and cornelian signet ring hallmarked Birmingham 1893.

Signet rings date back to ancient civilisations, including Egypt and Rome, where they were used to imprint seals into wax for authentication. These rings often featured engraved family crests or symbols, signifying status and ownership. Over centuries, signet rings evolved into symbols of heritage and personal identity, blending tradition with modern elegance.
