

An early 1930s two-step Herbert Terry Anglepoise lamp in original black painted finish

Sold

Description

An early 1930s two-step Herbert Terry Anglepoise lamp in original black painted finish.

The Anglepoise lamp, designed in the 1930s by George Carwardine, is renowned for its adjustable, versatile design. Featuring a unique balancing mechanism, it allows precise control of light direction and height. Its sleek, functional aesthetic has made it a classic in both industrial and modern interior design.

Rewired with twisted fabric flex and PAT tested.