Description

Charming bachelor-size antique silver teapot designed and made in the Aesthetic style. The body and pulloff cover are hand engraved with bamboo, fanned panels and cranes while the cover is surmounted by a bamboo-shaped finial. All classic motifs of the Aesthetic movement.

The teapot's capacity is 500ml; a generous three cups of tea.

"Art for art's sake", was a phrase coined by Theophile Gautier in 1835, and became the slogan for the Aesthetic Movement - a movement that set forth to promote the cult of pure beauty in the arts - dreamlike and wistful. Aesthetic silver design focused on decorative surface detail where the shape of pieces was borrowed from an earlier stylistic era, but now covered in a riot of flowers, plants and birds, featuring decorative motifs from Japan; herons, blossom, bamboo, chrysanthemum and butterflies.

A silver teapot pours like no other and sterling silver is the perfect material for making teapots:

- · No other material can be fashioned into such elegant and detailed forms, reflect light as beautifully, and a perfectly formed silver teapot spout will never drip.
- · Second only to diamonds, silver has the highest thermal conductivity of any material, meaning that tea leaves can be brewed at a higher temperature than in any other teapot, allowing the tea leaves to fully release their flavours.
- · That same high thermal conductivity means a silver teapot will retain heat and keep tea hot for much longer.
- · Unlike porcelain and ceramic teapots, silver is sturdy and long-lasting, does not shatter and the occasional dent can be debruised.
